Women's Fair Policies and Procedures

Exhibitors Show Admittance

IMPORTANT - Please Make Sure All Booth Staff Read This Notice:

Exhibitors and their booth staff are admitted to the Women's Fair ONLY if they have their exhibitor's badge or one of the exhibitor staff tickets provided in your packet. If they do not have their badge or staff ticket, they must purchase a ticket for admittance to the Hall. In addition, if exhibitors or their staff bring friends or relatives, the exhibitor's badge will not admit additional relatives, friends or guests - it will only admit the Women's Fair exhibitor or booth staff personnel who is wearing the badge or using the staff ticket. Guests without passes must purchase a ticket. Badges allow unlimited admittance to wearer only. Staff tickets admit one staff person, one time and are taken by the ticket taker at the door.

Exhibitors Show Admittance

- Avoid inconvenience to you and to your personnel – it is YOUR responsibility to insure that you and your employees have the appropriate exhibitor's badge, ticket, or staff ticket. No admittance will be allowed without an exhibitor's badge, staff ticket or ticket.
- Guards and ticket takers are employed to take tickets and furnish show security. They are NOT authorized to allow or negotiate admission to the show to anyone without the appropriate ticket or badge.
- Exhibitors and their staff will not be allowed entrance into the exhibit area to "retrieve" a badge from an exhibitor.
- Tickets or badges will NOT be held at the door for pick-up.
- Only one person is admitted for each badge displayed. If friends or relatives come without a ticket or pass, they will NOT be admitted. You must make provisions for them ahead of time or purchase a ticket. (Staff tickets and badges are intended for people working the booth, not friends or family).

Exhibitors are allowed entrance to the show 1½ hours prior to the public show hours each day; please check the schedules. For security purposes there can be NO exceptions to this rule.

Even though there are multiple entrances to Century II, only 3 entrances will be open for admittance. Expo Hall east door, the west dock door and the south door of Expo Hall. Please inform all booth staff of the show entrances and admittance rules, as well as the location of pre-show entrance locations. For exhibitors staying at the Hyatt, the door by the elevator in the connecting lobby will be manned before the show opens each day. You can hand carry items through the east doors, but you MAY NOT use carts. (Additional Pre-Show Exhibitor Entrance: For your convenience, the door under the stairway in the connecting lobby and the north end of Expo Hall will be open each morning until the show opens to the public.)

Payment Deadline

All contracts for space in Women's Fair 2017 must be paid in full by the date indicated on your contract.

Booth Etiquette

Sharing one building with nearly 300 other businesses utilizing over 400 exhibit spaces is highly dependent on some simple courtesies and consideration to your neighbors. This is just a reminder of some professional courtesies that will facilitate everyone having a positive experience.

Move-in and Move-out can be very hectic. We have hired additional staff both inside and outside the building to make this process as smooth as possible. Please follow their instructions & parking rules. Your assigned move in times and unloading inside the hall with a vehicle is limited to 15 to 30 minutes.

- Be considerate – do not block others access to their booth. Remember, just like you, others are waiting to get in.
- During the show, keep any sound coming from your booth at a conversational level and contained to the booth and the area just in front of it.
- All business must be done within the confines of your booth space – not in the aisles and not walking through the exhibit hall.
- Provide a trash container at your booth if you are handing out food or beverage samples.
  - Your booth staff should be asked to not take food samples from other booths unless they are actually considering the purchase of a product.
  - They should not try to make a meal out of fellow exhibitor’s samples.
- Respect your neighbor’s access to customers. Control your crowd. Make sure that the people visiting your booth or your staff are not blocking the front of other booths. If you need help with this, contact the Women’s Fair office at the North end of the exhibit hall.
- Door prizes and shopping spree promotions are designed to generate more attendees for you; therefore they are limited to paid attendees.
  - It becomes very awkward when the Women’s Fair Staff and/or you have to deal with these issues during the Fair so please educate your staff before the show. We appreciate your assistance & cooperation – Thank you!

Passes and Badges

You will pick up your passes and badges at move-in on Thursday, February 16th, 2017. OR Call the Women’s Fair office at (316) 773-3189 to make special early badge pickup arrangements, delivery or to discuss the number of badges you need for booth workers. Exhibitor badges allow access to the show during all show hours and should be worn during move-in and move-out as well. Staff tickets can be utilized to augment your staffing requirements and are furnished to compensate in instances where badges do not cover all booth personnel, and are in addition to the exhibitor badges.

The following ratio of Exhibitor badges to tickets is based on booth size and should be more than adequate to allow you the necessary flexibility in scheduling.

Booth Size	Exhibitor Badges (multiple access)	Staff Tickets (one-time access)
10x10 & 8x10	4	5
10x20	6	5
20x20	9	5
20x30	12	5

Additional exhibitor badges can be purchased for $10.00 each.

Tips For Success

at the Women's Fair

from Deanna Wheeler & Chris Veazey Brown

"We have been involved in trade shows for over 35 years and in that time have picked up many pointers and tips for a successful show experience. We are pleased to share some of them with you now."

- START NOW! Utilize your social media to invite your customers/clients to see you at the Women's Fair. Ask them to like and share that information with their friends.
- Include staff in your pre-planning. They need to know what you want to accomplish and what they should do to achieve those goals. Define your goals in terms of immediate goals and long-term net results. Solicit their input for maximizing predetermined goals.
- Make it easy for booth staff to do their job. Do they have the work schedule? Do they know about free parking at Lawrence Stadium and do they have change for the parking meters? An exhibitor's badge or staff ticket? Have they read all of the exhibitor's information, including rules and regulations?
- If you are doing a give-away, be sure to make it work for you. Identify what you want to accomplish with the drawing? Find a way to identify good prospects (turn down a corner or place a grading symbol on the entry blank as you deposit it into the entry box). Preplan how you will manage follow-up with prospects following the Fair. Consider including marketing/demographic questions on the entry blank.
- Network with the other exhibitors, they can be a valuable source of information or they may be your next customer. Study the other displays to see what might work for your company in the future.
- Show Kit - here is a list of things you are likely to wish you had with you: Quarters, aspirin, band aids, sharpened pencils, note pads, business cards, sales materials, tape, wire, Windex, paper towels, stapler (one that opens) Kleenex, hammer, pliers, breath mints, 25' extension cord, a camera.
- Be enthusiastic and have fun. Thousands of women are excited to be attending the Women's Fair. Let them know that you are happy they are there. First impressions last a long time. Avoid using direct negative comparisons to sell against competitors' products or services. Sell your product or service on its features and benefits to the customer. The potential buyer is mentally doing the negative comparisons for you if you are doing your job right!
- Decide how to present your company or product. Will it be more effective to utilize demonstrations, interactive displays, set a mood, define your style, capture the imagination, create curiosity, play a game, use color or motion, inform & educate or create visual impact? Think outside the box! Exhibitors just sitting behind a table with literature are boring. Don't be on your phone unless necessary. Here's why – customers will avoid your booth to not to bother you, will feel they are not a priority and will bypass your booth.
- Design your exhibit space for the best possible results:
  - Does it visually send the right message? Will your exhibit stand out from a distance? Will it create a lasting impression that will be remembered after the show? Does it set you apart from your competition?
- Know when to hire a pro. If designing an exhibit space or planning promotional events are not your strength or time doesn't allow for proper attention, hire a professional.
- Over-staffing your exhibit can be as detrimental as under staffing. People are naturally intimidated when they are outnumbered or have to stand too close to others.
- Have you contracted for enough space to adequately present your product and to accommodate the crowd?
- Coupons with no expiration date or a 1-year expiration produce a better return than short-term coupons.

- Design your exhibit so people can step into your exhibit space. Once they have stepped into your space, you have earned their trust and that step is a strong signal of their interest. Do not put a barrier between them and your product.
- Capitalize on your opportunities:
  - Build a prospect list or mailing list, test a new product, or do some research.
  - Sell direct at the Women's Fair. Women come prepared to buy.
  - Stimulate after fair business with special offers, discounts or registrations that encourages a visit to your place of business.
  - Buy an ad in the Wichita Eagle's Women's Fair Tabloid and benefit from double exposure. In addition to advertising on Sun., Feb. 12th, the Tabloid is our official program and is distributed to show attendees. Promote your location, your company or product, phone number, your demonstration or stage presentation, print a coupon ad, etc. Deadline is Jan. 26, 2017.
- Train your staff:
  - Train your staff to welcome attendees into your exhibit, have a good time with them, stay light and friendly. It may be 30 minutes before closing, but to that guest, this is your first impression and may be your last.
  - Inform staff of the importance of focusing on the crowd in front of them and not on each other or on their phone.
    - Utilize company name badges for the best personal impression. People like to know who they are talking to. If you do not have company badges, slip your business card into your exhibitor badge cover. (Be sure to keep the exhibitor badge under the card to show when entering Century II each day)
  - Train your staff to ask qualifying questions.
  - Train your staff to ask attendees what they have enjoyed the most at the Women's Fair, or what brought them out today. You may learn a lot about your customers.
- Schedule an after-Fair critique and planning meeting to review results and plan follow-up sales and next year's exhibit.
- Professional dress and attire make the best first impressions, but remember comfortable shoes are a must. It's hard to smile when your feet hurt!
- Consider utilizing manufacturers representatives or outside professional staff.
- Signage:
  - Use professional signage only. Signage gives you professional credibility.
  - Remember your address or location on signage.
  - Use your company slogan or positioning statement on your sign, it defines what kind of business you are and sets you apart.
  - Logos were specifically invented to create longer impressions, use them.
- Samples and giveaways always encourage people to visit your booth. Think about what you want to accomplish. You may want to hand them out to everyone or utilize them to gain qualified information.
- Decide how you will track your Women's Fair results. Here are a few suggestions: 1) Coupons printed especially for distribution at the Fair, 2) Marking, stamping, or punching your business card for a special discount after the Fair, 3) Offer a special Women's Fair give-away that must be picked up at your place of business, and 4) Give away a designated "dollars-off" card to be used on a purchase at your store.
